PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Digital marketer with 8 years running multi-client campaigns to deadline and to number — 20+ retail, lifestyle and F&B accounts concurrently, HK$3M+ cumulative ad spend at 3–10x ROAS, peaking at HK$500K+/month in-house at Hong Kong's #1 baby e-commerce platform.

I have been putting generative AI into commercial marketing production since 2022 — not experimenting with it, shipping client work with it. That system is why one person can hold 10+ campaign variants per testing cycle, twice-weekly lifecycle sends to 30,000 subscribers, and a monthly reporting pack, without any of the three slipping.

I write my own copy in Traditional Chinese and English, so nothing waits on a translator. And I run single-variable A/B discipline, which is the boring reason my results are attributable rather than anecdotal.

ONE THING I WANT TO PUT ON THE TABLE FIRST

Your job ad says:

> "You don't need to be an AI expert (yet)... we have weekly AI training sessions, and you'll learn workflows that most marketers won't discover for years."

I would rather run that session than attend it. I have been building AI-assisted marketing production in live client work since 2022, roughly two years before the industry moved. I teach it publicly in Cantonese, and I sell it — HK$13,800/month packages bought by businesses who wanted the workflow, not the theory.

So the trade I am proposing is the reverse of the one your ad describes. What I want from LABLESS is the thing I genuinely do not have: agency-side client discipline — scope defined and defended, utilisation that adds up, and the craft of keeping six clients each believing they are the priority. Serving 20+ clients at once as an independent teaches you the pace; it does not teach you how an agency runs as a business.

What LABLESS gets back is that "AI has been in our DNA since day one" stops depending on the founder's own hours. In a team of your size that capability almost certainly lives in one or two heads. I would make it a system new hires inherit.

WHERE I AM LIGHT — SAID NOW, NOT IN MONTH TWO

I have never held an agency title. No Account Manager, Account Director or agency Project Manager on my record. My multi-client experience is as an independent — 20+ concurrent accounts from 2018 to 2021, and a live consulting book now. The pace and the client-facing accountability are real; the internal agency machinery is not something I can claim.

AEO is on my reading list, not my track record. Your ad lists it twice. I have run SEO to result — 30% organic traffic growth alongside paid social — and I have spent two years publishing into a search environment where AI summaries increasingly sit above the blue links, so I understand the shift from ranking a page to being cited in an answer. But I have not run a formal AEO programme with measurement attached. I would be building that with you, not bringing it.

ClickUp specifically, I have not used. I have run Notion as an operating system for years — client workspaces, briefing templates, QC checklists, campaign calendars. Tool migration is a week, not a skill gap, and I would not pretend otherwise in either direction.

One honest correction before anyone opens my channel. @aieasyjob has a large lifetime view count and I am deliberately not using that number as evidence — roughly 60% of it comes from a single Japanese anime music cover, while the AI and marketing films sit in the hundreds to low thousands. Anyone who clicks through sees that in ten seconds. The number that means something is below.

CORE COMPETENCIES

Client operations & delivery — Multi-account management at 20+ concurrent clients · onboarding, briefing and expectation-setting · deliverable QC before it reaches the client · monthly reporting packs for senior stakeholders · third-party output quality control across 200+ partners

AI-assisted production (in commercial use since 2022) — Claude & Claude Code · ChatGPT · Gemini · Midjourney · Notion AI · prompt libraries and reusable templates with QC gates · production time cut ~60% · testing cycle time cut ~50%

Performance marketing — Meta Ads · Google Ads (Search, Shopping, Performance Max, retargeting) · TikTok · HK$500K+/month at 3–7x ROAS · cold-audience acquisition and warm-audience monetisation · offer and discount structuring

Content, social & search — Traditional Chinese and English copy written first-hand · hook, message and format testing against native retention data · short-form video written, directed and cut solo · SEO delivering 30% organic traffic growth alongside paid social · landing page messaging and CRO

Lifecycle & CRM — Klaviyo at 30,000 subscribers · welcome, abandoned cart, post-purchase and win-back automation · segmentation by purchase stage and category behaviour

Measurement & systems — GA4 · Meta Ads Manager · dashboard build for non-marketers · ROAS, CAC, CPA, CTR, CVR, repeat purchase rate · single-variable A/B testing with kill criteria · UTM and pixel governance · Notion (workspace architecture) · Shopify · Zapier / Make-style automation · ClickUp (learning)

SELECTED RESULTS

Held 20+ clients at once, at 3–7x ROAS, for three years

Freelance, Nov 2018 – Dec 2021. Retail, lifestyle and F&B. HK$3M+ cumulative spend. Each account got its own funnel architecture, offer structure and messaging register, because a restaurant's purchase cycle and a fashion label's do not respond to the same calendar.

This is my answer to "3–5 years in an agency — you've juggled multiple clients." Different structure, same load. Nothing fell over.

Rebuilt a failing account: ROAS 0.3x → 3x in 90 days

A fashion and lifestyle retailer with budget trapped in warm retargeting and a stale creative pool. I moved 70% of spend into cold-audience acquisition and tested to isolate which messages were failing rather than blaming audiences. 3x ROAS in 90 days on a majority-acquisition split — the harder version of that result, because it is net-new customers rather than harvesting demand that already existed.

+200% conversion rate, and the discipline that produced it

Built a production pipeline that lifted output to 10+ campaign variants per testing cycle while holding single-variable discipline — hook, then message, then format — so every result stayed attributable to one change. +200% conversion rate, peak campaigns above 10x ROAS, testing cycle time cut roughly 50%.

The volume came from AI-assisted production. The credibility came from refusing to change five things at once. Both matter; only one of them is fashionable.

Owned HK$500K+/month in-house, reported to people who don't speak marketing

Baby Central — Hong Kong's #1 baby e-commerce platform, HK and SEA. Led Meta and Google through a high-growth scaling phase: HK$300K incremental GMV within five months, 30% organic traffic growth through integrated SEO and paid social. Built the GA4 and Meta Ads Manager dashboards that senior stakeholders reported off monthly — the deliverable was not the dashboard, it was everyone agreeing what each number meant.

"Reports, presentations, communications — accurate, on-time, and looks great" is in your ad. This is that, at a level where being wrong was expensive.

Ran a 30,000-subscriber lifecycle programme without dropping a send

Owned the Klaviyo content-to-conversion system end to end: twice-weekly campaigns plus automated welcome, abandoned cart, post-purchase and win-back flows, segmented by purchase stage and category behaviour. Recurring deadlines, no missed cadence — which is the unglamorous version of "no chaos on your watch."

Put generative AI into a commercial workflow in 2022

Introduced it into creative and campaign production at Baby Central roughly two years ahead of general adoption: A/B testing cycles cut 50%, production cost materially reduced. Not a pilot — it shipped client-facing work.

This maps onto "AI has been in our DNA since day one" — I was doing it in the same window you were founding on it.

Distribution proof that does not need a media budget

@aieasyjob — my own Cantonese brand across YouTube, Instagram and Facebook. 58 films written, directed and cut solo, eight of them in the last month. One Facebook Reel reached 76,000 organic views from a page with

77 followers, zero paid support; a second, built the same way, reached 11,000 — which is what tells you the first was structural rather than luck.

Converted into B2B consulting engagements at HK$13,800/month. The audience was the proof; the workflow was the product.

Ran a 200+ partner programme with enforced standards

Sourced, briefed and quality-controlled 200+ KOL and influencer partners across HK and SEA, in a category where a careless claim is a liability — including the willingness to reject work before a client saw it.

HOW I'D RUN CLIENT OPERATIONS IN THE FIRST 90 DAYS

Weeks 1–2 — inherit the accounts properly. For every live client: what was sold, what is actually being delivered, when it is due, who owns each piece, and where the last three deliverables slipped and why. In a small team this usually lives in someone's head and in ClickUp inconsistently. I would rather find the gaps in week one than discover them in a client call.

Then fix the recurring stuff first. Reporting, check-ins and status updates are the work that arrives whether or not anyone has capacity. Templated, scheduled, and pre-populated from source data, they stop competing with the work clients actually pay for. This is the single highest-leverage thing to do in a team of your size, and it is where AI belongs first — not in ideation, in the parts nobody wants to do twice.

Make the AI capability transferable, not personal. Documented prompt libraries per deliverable type, with a QC gate on every one. The test I hold myself to: a new hire in week two should produce output at the same standard without asking anyone. Undocumented AI skill inside a small agency is a single point of failure wearing the costume of an advantage.

Put a defensible line under scope. With a founder-led client relationship, scope creep does not arrive as a request, it arrives as a favour. What I would want agreed early is what triggers a conversation versus what we absorb — because "clients happy" and "team not underwater" only coexist if someone writes that line down.

Instrument before optimising. Every account gets one page: what we spend, what it returns, what we are testing, what we killed and why. Not for the client — for us. You cannot tell an over-serviced account from a profitable one without it.

Ask about the AEO gap out loud. It is a stated requirement I have not run formally, so in month one I would want to know which clients it matters for and what "working" looks like to them — then build the measurement framework before the tactics, which is the opposite of how most of the market is approaching it.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Founder & Growth Operator — @aieasyjob (YouTube · Instagram · Facebook)

2024 – Present | Hong Kong

- Built a Traditional Chinese / Cantonese content brand from zero, solo — strategy, copy, production, distribution and analytics across three platforms. 58 films to date, eight in the last month.
- Produced a 76,000-view organic Facebook Reel from a 77-follower page, zero paid support; a second at 11,000 confirmed the result was structural.
- Ran hypothesis-driven tests on messaging, format and opening structure against native retention data, compounding findings into a documented playbook.
- Built an AI production pipeline (Claude, ChatGPT, Gemini, Midjourney) with reusable templates and QC checklists — production time cut ~60%.
- Converted organic audience into B2B consulting engagements at HK$13,800/month packages.

Freelance Digital Marketing Consultant

Mar 2024 – Present | Hong Kong & regional clients

- Rebuilt full-funnel Meta strategy for a fashion and lifestyle retailer — 0.3x to 3x ROAS in 90 days on a 70% cold-acquisition split.

AVAILABILITY & PACKAGE

Current: HK$40,600 per month — self-employed consulting income. Gross, and excluding employer MPF contribution, paid annual leave and medical coverage, so not directly comparable to a permanent package.

Expected: HK$48,000 – 54,000 per month base, excluding bonus. Morgan McKinley's 2026 Hong Kong reference point for a Digital Marketing Manager is HK$55,000 per month, and this range sits just under it to reflect that I would be learning the agency side rather than arriving with it. Flexible depending on how the role is levelled and the total package — happy to anchor to your budgeted band rather than guess.

Availability: 2 weeks from agreed terms.

Location: Hong Kong, available on-site. Hybrid suits me.
