Expected salary: HK$55,000 per month

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Growth marketing leader accountable for multi-million HKD annual media budgets with revenue, not reach, as the reporting line. 8 years scaling consumer acquisition across high-growth e-commerce and digital businesses in Hong Kong and Southeast Asia: HK$500K+ per month owned at Hong Kong's #1 baby e-commerce platform at consistent 3–7x ROAS (≈HK$6M annually), and HK$3M+ cumulative across 20+ brands at 3–10x ROAS.

Runs paid acquisition as a capital allocation problem. Budget is split 70/30 between proven and test, tested one variable at a time so results are attributable, and read down the funnel — cost efficiency through conversion rate to revenue — so creative that wins on engagement but fails on economics gets retired rather than scaled. Turned a failing account from 0.3x to 3x ROAS in 90 days on a majority cold-audience split, delivered HK$300K incremental GMV in 5 months, and lifted conversion rate +200% through systematic testing.

Measurement infrastructure is treated as a precondition, not an afterthought: GA4 and Meta Ads Manager dashboards, UTM taxonomy and pixel governance, monthly performance reporting to senior stakeholders.

Led a team of three (two designers, one marketing executive) plus agency partners, with AI-driven workflows raising output per head rather than headcount. Trilingual: Cantonese (native), English (fluent), Mandarin (fluent). Hong Kong-based, available for hybrid.

HOW I ALLOCATE AND MEASURE

Budget architecture. 70/30 split between proven channels and active tests — enough allocation to learn meaningfully without putting account performance at risk. Pacing reviewed against efficiency targets, not spend targets.

Cost accountability down the funnel. Decisions read at the level where they affect revenue: creative engagement → click-through → conversion rate → cost efficiency → return on spend. Anything that wins upstream and fails downstream is retired.

Single-variable testing. One variable per test — creative angle, then messaging, then format or placement — so results are attributable rather than directional. AI-driven throughput sits inside this discipline; volume without attribution is noise.

Cold versus warm discipline. Prospecting is treated as the growth engine and retargeting as harvest. When an account is failing, the diagnosis starts with whether spend is manufacturing demand or just collecting it.

Retention as an economics lever. Acquisition cost is only defensible if repeat purchase follows, so lifecycle automation and segmentation are managed as part of the same P&L rather than a separate email function.

Measurement infrastructure. GA4 and Meta Ads Manager dashboards, UTM taxonomy and pixel governance maintained continuously, with monthly senior-stakeholder reporting built on a single source of truth.

SIGNATURE CASE STUDIES

1. Failing Account to Profitable Acquisition — ROAS 0.3x to 3x in 90 Days

Context. A fashion and lifestyle retail client was running Meta Ads at 0.3x ROAS — losing roughly three dollars for every one returned. Budget was concentrated in warm retargeting and the creative pool had gone stale, so spend was collecting existing demand at a loss rather than acquiring customers.

Action. Diagnosed the failure as creative and funnel rather than audience, isolating it with single-variable tests before touching budget. Then reallocated 70% of spend to cold-audience prospecting, rebuilt the creative pool around journey-stage messaging instead of a single offer angle, and rebuilt landing page messaging to match ad promise and close the conversion gap.

Result. ROAS scaled from 0.3x to 3x within 90 days — on a majority-prospecting split, which is materially harder than a retargeting-led lift because the return came from net-new customers rather than harvested demand.

2. HK$500K+/Month Owned with Revenue Accountability

Context. Baby Central, Hong Kong's #1 baby e-commerce platform, scaling across HK and SEA. Trust-sensitive category where engagement metrics actively mislead and only revenue is a reliable signal.

Action. Owned channel performance and budget allocation across Meta and Google — Search, Shopping, Performance Max and retargeting — at HK$500K+ per month, roughly HK$6M annually. Built GA4 and Meta Ads Manager dashboards specifically to tie spend to revenue rather than engagement proxies, with UTM and pixel governance maintained as testing infrastructure. Scaled a 200+ KOL programme as a measurable acquisition channel rather than a brand-awareness line item.

Result. Consistent 3–7x ROAS sustained at that budget level, HK$300K incremental GMV within 5 months, and 30% organic traffic growth through integrated SEO and paid social.

3. Testing Throughput Converted into Conversion Rate — +200%

Context. Creative testing was throughput-limited to a handful of variants per cycle, producing slow, low-confidence learning and long stretches of unvalidated creative in market.

Action. Built an AI-assisted variant production pipeline raising output to 10+ variants per cycle across copy and visual, while holding single-variable sequencing so attribution survived the increase. Winners were documented into a playbook with the structural reason they won, so patterns compounded rather than being re-derived.

Result. +200% conversion rate across Meta Ads and Instagram, peak campaigns at 10x+ ROAS, and testing cycle time cut ~50%.

4. Retention Economics — Klaviyo Programme, 30,000 Subscribers

Context. Acquisition was performing but repeat purchase was under-exploited, leaving unit economics dependent on continuous paid spend — an expensive way to grow.

Action. Owned the Klaviyo system end to end for 30,000 subscribers: 2x weekly campaigns plus four automated flows — welcome, abandoned cart, post-purchase and win-back — with audience segmentation and A/B testing on subject lines and offers. Coordinated the acquisition-to-retention handover so paid creative and lifecycle messaging told one continuous story.

Result. A working repeat-purchase engine driving measurable returning revenue, reducing dependence on paid acquisition and lifting the value of every customer acquired.

5. Output Per Head Instead of Headcount

Context. Leading a small team (two designers, one marketing executive) against a workload spanning paid, social, EDM, website revamp and offline events — with no scope to hire.

Action. Introduced generative AI into production workflows in 2022, ~2 years ahead of industry, and built reusable templates with QC checklists so quality did not depend on individual memory. Delivered a full website design and revamp with the design team alongside the ongoing paid programme.

Result. A/B testing cycles cut 50%, production cost materially reduced, and the team absorbed a website revamp without dropping paid performance — ROAS held at 3–7x throughout.
